HOW TO CREATE A BADASS JOB DESCRIPTION

Learning how to write a job description can be quite difficult when you haven't got a clue what you're doing. Here's the foundation for building the perfect job description.

Paint a picture of your organisation's company culture, what you do as a business, and your company values - this will allow candidates to decide whether your business is right for them.

Use the templates that we have provided to give the candidate an in-depth overview of the role you are looking to fill - things like "what does a typical day look like" are perfect to add to a job description.

Adding your benefits to a job description will work wonders for the number of applications you receive; things like 25 days holiday, remote or hybrid working and flexible working go down a treat with potential applications!

The "How To Recruit" course was designed to give businesses back control of their recruitment.

The programme is perfect for businesses that attract talent into their business but want to learn more about recruitment and it's also beneficial for businesses that already have a recruitment department but for some reason, it's just not performing.

The "How To Recruit" course is an online learning programme, with lifetime access that teaches you everything that you need to know about recruitment, attraction strategies, interviewing and onboarding. It's interactive, and easy to follow and there are a tonne of templates that you can download and use every day in your recruitment practice.
